Making the best use of these units

- At the beginning of the class, make sure that students understand what they are doing and why. 'We are doing the exercise on page (12) to help you to remember key words / to help your writing skills / to help with grammar' etc.
- You can create your personal teaching resource by printing these units in full and filing them by subject in a large ring binder.
- Encourage students to:

- Bring the relevant subject textbooks to language support class. It does not matter if they have different textbooks as the activities in these units refer to vocabulary and other items that will be found in all subject textbooks. These units are based on curriculum materials.
- Take some responsibility for their own learning programmes by:

Developing a personal dictionary for different subjects, topics, and other categories of language, on an on-going basis. This prompt is a reminder.

Recording what they have learnt on the Learning Record, which should be distributed at the start of each unit.

Keeping their own files with good examples of the work produced in language support for different subjects and topics. This file will be an invaluable learning resource in supporting mainstream learning.

- Don't forget that many of the activities in these units are suitable as homework tasks, for self-study, or for use in the subject classroom with the agreement of the subject teacher.

Indicates that answers may be found at the end of the unit.

Multiple choice

Muslims believe that the Qur'an is literally the word of God. They are taught to treat every copy of it with great respect: for example, the Qur'an should never be left lying on the ground.

The Qur'an rivals the Bible as the world's most widely read book.

The key doctrines of Islam are known as the five articles, or pillars, of faith.

- 1 There is only one God, who is named Allah.
- 2 Angels are Allah's messengers.
- 3 The Qur'an is the final and complete revelation of Allah.
- 4 Muhammad is the last and the greatest prophet of Allah.
- 5 There will be a final day of judgment, when Allah will reward the good and punish the wicked.

Muslims are expected to uphold these beliefs in their daily lives by practising the five pillars of faith

1. What do Muslims believe is the word of God?
a) the Bible
b) the Qur'an
c) people
d) the sun
2. What is every copy of the Qur'an to be treated with?
a) paint
b) respect
c) care
d) oil
3. What are Allah's messengers called?
a) saints
b) demons
c) angels
d) holy
4. Is the Qur'an the final revelation of Allah?
a) Yes
b) No
5. Will there be a final day of judgement?
a) Yes
b) No

Circle all the proper nouns on this page.
They are the nouns which must be written with a capital letter.
