Using this unit

Learning support, language support and mainstream subject class

The sections Focus on vocabulary, Focus on reading and Focus on writing are suitable for Learning Support.

The sections Activating students' knowledge, Focus on vocabulary, and Focus on grammar have been designed, in particular, for Language Support classes.

Focus on vocabulary, Focus on reading and Focus on writing are suitable for use in Learning Support, Language Support and subject classes.

Answer Key

Answers are provided at the end of the unit for all activities except those based on free writing.

Textbooks

This unit focuses on the core topic Social Studies from the Leaving Certificate Home Economics curriculum. Students will need to use their textbooks if they are to gain the most benefit from the activities.

Learning Record

The Learning Record is intended to help students monitor their progress. This can be downloaded or printed from the website in the section Advising Students and Record of Learning for the Leaving Certificate. A copy of the Learning Record should be distributed to each student for each unit studied.

Students should:

1. Write the subject and topic on the record.
2. Tick off/date the different statements as they complete activities.
3. Keep the record in their files along with the work produced for this unit.
4. Use this material to support mainstream subject learning.

Symbols

Symbols are used throughout the unit to encourage students to develop their own learning and support materials.

prompts students to file the sheet when they have completed the activity. This is used for activities which can be used as a reference in the future e.g. for subject classroom, revision, homework etc.

prompts students to add vocabulary, definitions, or examples of vocabulary in use to their own personal glossary for the topic. A personal glossary makes study and revision more efficient.

Introduction

Activating students' existing knowledge

Use a spidergram to activate students' ideas and knowledge on the key points in this chapter. See Teachers' Notes for suggestions.

Possible key terms for the spidergram:

The family

Marriage

Teenagers

- Invite newcomer students to provide key words in their own languages.
- Encourage dictionary use.
- Encourage all students to organise their vocabulary into relevant categories (e.g. meaning, nouns, keywords, verbs etc.).

All students should record vocabulary and terms from the spidergram in their personal dictionaries.

Language Level: B1

Focus on vocabulary

1. Vocabulary building

There are 5 words in the box below which are associated with the topic – Social Studies. Put a circle around the five words.

(You can use your textbook to help you by checking which of these words appear in the headings of the units).

sociology		unmotivated
	desk
afraid		happy
values	lazy	kinship
	society	indecisive
culture	decisive	motivated

2. Vocabulary in use

Below are definitions of the five words from exercise 1. Match each of the 5 words with a definition.

- A group of people who share a common culture or way of life.
- Beliefs held by a society about what is 'right' and 'wrong'.
- Blood relations that exist between people.
- A study of human society.
- The beliefs, customs, values, language, knowledge and skills passed on from one generation to the next.

3. Matching - Family Structures

Match each expression in Column A with a definition in Column B. Draw a line between the matching expressions.

Column A	Column B
nuclear family	a household with one parent
extended family	A situation where one of the parents is in a second relationship or marriage and there are step children from one or both sides.
single/lone parent family	couple who have a semi-permanent relationship without a legal contract
blended family	The family consists only of parents and children.
cohabitation	where a number of families unrelated by blood or marriage live together as a group (or commune)
communal living	when a large number of relations live together or are in close proximity

4. Using key terms – Family Structures

Check your understanding of the 6 terms above, by using them to fill the gaps in the following sentences:

- The vast majority of _____ are headed by women.
- In countries such as the UK and the USA where divorce has been legal for a long time, there are a large number of _____.
- The _____ is considered the modern family type where democracy rules and there is joint decision-making.
- In _____ structures income, expenses and child rearing are shared in the group.
- _____ before marriage is increasingly common in Ireland.
- In _____, widows and orphans are cared for by the family rather than by state intervention.

5. Verbs in the present

Read the extract from your textbook below and underline all of the verbs.

(verb: a word that refers to an action). We have done the first two for you.

Procedure for making a will.

(a will : a legal document that gives instructions about what should happen to your money and possessions after you die)

- Make a list of what you own and decide how much these items are worth.
- Decide who you would like to have your possessions (the beneficiaries).
- Choose someone who will make sure your wishes are carried out (the executor). It is better to choose two executors, in case something happens to one.
- To make a will it is advisable to use a solicitor who will charge a fee.
- If you do not use a solicitor, you can draw up a will at home, but only in a very simple form.
- Keep the will in a safe place, preferably at the solicitor's or perhaps at the bank.

6. Verbs in the past

Now write out the procedure in the past tense, by changing all the verbs to the simple past, and referring to a person, Mr Jackson. We have started this for you.

Mr Jackson made a list of what he owned and decided how much these items were worth.

7. Reading to remember

a. First look at the title 'Adolescent-adult conflict' of this extract from your textbook. What do you think are the areas of conflict between adults and adolescents? Before you read, try to predict some of the areas of conflict and write them in the space below.

b. Next read the article and underline or highlight all the areas of conflict.

c. Turn over the page and try to remember as many of the 7 areas as possible. Give yourself 10 points for each one you remember and see who gets the highest score!

Adolescent-adult conflict

The period of adolescence is a transition from childhood to adulthood between the ages of twelve and nineteen and can be a time of great emotional upset and turmoil. Being a teenager may be less difficult for some, but there are many areas where tension or conflict may occur between parents and children.

1. Adolescence brings with it the influence of the peer group. The peer group gives a sense of security and a common purpose. The choice of peers as well as the intensity of the relationship is often a cause of conflict between a parent and a child.
2. The imposition of rules on teenagers causes rows, as they want to be treated as mature people. Adolescents have no clear status. They crave the freedom of adulthood but fear the responsibility it brings.
3. Teenagers can suffer from mood swings and have a problem with self esteem, which may not be fully understood by the parents.
4. The parent may feel threatened as the teenager is becoming more mature, developing personal values, and becoming more independent. Parents fear for their child and its future. They see many possible problems ahead, such as teenage pregnancy, alcohol, drugs etc. The adolescent also questions the parents' views. A combination of these things causes tension.
5. The generation gap is seen by many as the main reason for conflict. Parents may not keep up with changes in technology, fashion, music, leisure, schoolwork, job prospects and even language. The lack of knowledge on these and other social problems, such as drug abuse, may be another cause for tension.
6. Plans for the future, including education, can be an issue. Parents may wish the teenager to follow one particular path when the adolescent may have a totally different idea.
7. Society is inconsistent in its demands. This sends mixed messages to teenagers, causing arguments. An example of this can be seen in societies which advocate peace but conscript their teenagers into the army (as in Sweden). Another is where societies allow young people to get married at a younger age than they can have a driving license (as in Ireland).

8. Reading for specific information

Read the following extract from your textbook. Don't read slowly though every word and sentence. Read the questions first, then read the text in order to find answers to the questions. If possible time yourself!

- What does 'gender' mean?
- Give two examples of sex stereotyping.
- Give an example of what was a 'traditional' female job and a 'traditional' male job.

Gender Issues

Gender refers to being masculine or feminine and is based more on appearance, personality and behaviour than on being male or female. In most families, gender issues arise because as a nation we are prone to sex stereotyping from birth.

This begins with parents choosing the traditional blue for boys and pink for girls when buying baby clothes. This trend continues through childhood, with sex-specific toys and reading material and into school where the choice of subject and sports played are often determined by the gender of the individual. At home, different chores may be assigned to the females. For example, a man or boy may be asked to help with the heavier physical work, such as mowing the lawn, while a woman or girl does the washing up. In the past, all of this behaviour served to accentuate differing roles between men and women, something that is being tolerated less and less in the twenty-first century.

A more egalitarian role is now expected, with males becoming involved in what were once considered the 'female' jobs of childrearing. More women taking on traditionally 'male' jobs, such as surgeons, helps to dispel the myth of gender-specific professions.

9. Writing exam answers

In the Leaving Certificate exam, many answers are written as simple sentences. This exercise will give you practice in writing these sentences. Below are sample questions from LC exam papers on the core topic Social Studies. We have given you the answers, but they are jumbled! Rewrite the sentences correctly.

(a) Discuss: three aspects of adolescent behaviour that may lead to conflict between parents and teenagers.

• may feel that/ with technology/adolescents/ parents/ are out of touch/ music, fashion etc

• to what parents/ may be contrary /peer pressure actions/ find acceptable

6. Verbs in the past

There are many variations possible correct answers, the student may decide to write this out in different ways. This is a suggested answer.

(Students will note that in certain constructions – after would/could for example, the base form of the verb is still used (could draw up not could ~~drew up~~, would like to have not would like ~~to had~~)

Mr Jackson made a list of what he owned and decided how much these items were worth. He decided who he would like to have his possessions. He chose someone who would make sure that his wishes were carried out. (the executor). It was better to choose two executors in case something happened to one.
